1. Because he ſhould haue ſwallowed me too,
And when I had beene in his belly,
I would haue kept ſuch a gangling of the Belles,
That he ſhould neuer haue left,
Till he caſt Bels, Steeple, Church and Pariſh vp agayne:
But if the good King Simonides were of my minde.

Peri. Simonides?

3. We would purge the land of theſe Drones,
That rob the Bee of her hony.

Per. How from the ſenny ſubiect of the Sea,
Theſe Fiſhers tell the infirmities of men,
And from their watry Empire recollect,
All that may men approoue or men detect.
Peace be at your labour, honeſt fiſhermen.

2. Honeſt, good fellow, whats that, if it be a day fits you,
Search out of the Kalender, and no body looke after it?

Per. May ſee the Sea hath caſt vpon your coaſt.

2. What a drunken Knaue was the Sea,
To caſt thee in our way?

Per. A man whom both the waters and the winde,
In that vaſte Tennis-court, hath made the Ball
For them to play vpon, intreats you pitty him:
He aſkes of you that neuer vſ'd to begge.

1. No friend, cannot you begge?
Heer's them in our country of Greece,
Gets more with begging, then we can doe with working.

2. Canſt thou catch any Fiſhes then?

Peri. I neuer practiz'de it.

2. Nay then thou wilt ſtarue ſure: for heer's nothing to be got now-adayes, vnleſſe thou canſt fiſh for't.

Per. What I haue beene I haue forgot to know;
But what I am, want teaches me to thinke on:
A man throng'd vp with cold, my veines are chill,
And haue no more of life then may ſuffize
To giue my tongue that heate to aske your helpe:
Which if you ſhall refuſe, when I am dead,
For that I am a man, pray you ſee me buried.

1. Die, ke-tha; now gods forbid't, and I haue a gowne
heere, come put it on, keepe thee warme: now afore me a handſome fellow: Come, thou ſhalt goe home, & wee'le haue Fleſh for all day, Fiſh for faſting-dayes and more; or Puddings and Flap-iacks, and thou ſhalt be welcome.

Per. I thanke you, ſir.

2. Harke you, my friend, You ſayd you could not beg?

Per. I did but craue.

2. But craue?
Then Ile turne crauer too, and ſo I ſhall ſcape whipping.

Per. Why, are you beggers whip't then?

2. Oh not all, my friend, not all: for if all your beggers were whipt, I would wiſh no better office, the to be Beadle. But Maſter, Ile goe draw vp the Net.

Per. How well this honeſt mirth becomes their labour?

1. Hearke you, ſir, doe you know where ye are?

Per. Not well.

1. Why I tell you, this is cal'd Pantapoles,
And our King, the good Symonides.

Per. The good Symonides, doe you call him?

1. I ſir; and he deſerues ſo to be cal'd,
For his peaceable raigne, and good gouerment.

Per. He is a happy King, ſince he gaynes from
His ſubiects the name of good, by his gouerment.
How farre is his court diſtant from this ſhore?

1. Mary ſir, halfe a dayes iourney: and Ile tell you,
He hath a faire Daughter, & to morrow is her birth-day,
And there are Princes & Knights come from all parts of the world, to Iuſt and Turney for her loue.

Per. Were my fortunes equall to my deſires,
I could wiſh to make one there.

1. O ſir, things muſt be as they may: and what a man cannot get, he may lawfully deale for his Wiues ſoule.

Enter the two Fiſher-men, drawing vp a Net.

2. Helpe, Maſter, helpe, heere's a fiſh hangs in the net
Like a poore mans right in the law, twill hardly come out.
Ha bots on't, tis come at laſt, & tis turn'd to a ruſty Armor.
